Excerpt: . . . being strongly impressed with the depth and originality of his views, his sterling good sense and wisdom, his profound and varied information, his clear and luminous conceptions, his ardent and unbounded love of science, his extreme liberality towards every nation under the sun, his entire freedom from envy or jealousy of any description, and from professional rivalry and bitterness, his singleness of purpose, his goodness of heart, and his reverence for all the duties that belong to a Christian, an accountable being, and a man. This description of Dr. Prichard fittingly closes my brief sketch of the career of a physician of whom the familiar lines are eminently descriptive--In manners gentle, of affections mild, In wit a man, simplicity a child. I will now pass on to speak of Dr. John Addington Symonds, who, the sixth in medical succession in his family, was born at Oxford in 1807, but resided at Bristol or at Clifton till the end of his life, a period of forty years. He studied medicine at Oxford and Edinburgh, where he received the degree of M. D. in 1828. Mr. John Addington Symonds, the gifted son of a gifted father, writes: At Edinburgh he was distinguished among his fellow-students for the union of literary tastes and pursuits with an unflinching devotion to the studies of his profession. . . . The soundness of judgment and logical precision, with which he was eminently gifted by nature, and the industry of research, which...
