Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Every parent lives with the unspeakable fear of the loss of a child. Life holds no greater indignity than that of a parent who outlives their child. When the unspeakable happens, the rising tide and waves of grief seem unsurvivable. This book is a firsthand account of a mother whose son was tragically killed in an accident and her journey through that unbearable grief. This unflinching look at how a parent's reality is forever changed after the death of a child is both heartbreaking and hopeful. The grieving will recognize themselves in many places and feel less alone in their loss. Everyone's grief is unique and so will their journey be through that grief. This example of one mother's path will bring hope to the grieving that they can find theirs. FROM THE AUTHOR PROLOGUE JULY 19, 1997 My son died tragically. At first it was just raw pain, and writing was something I could do with that pain in the dark night hours. I'd walk the floor, crying, stifling the moans, rocking and holding myself, then put some words on paper. My daughter found the beginnings of the journal and said, You should write, Mom, but don't write about Marc. I prowled libraries, looking for a book about my experience. I wanted to be with another woman who had lost a son, walk with her in the solitude, let her explain it to me, help me make sense of it. I never found the book. WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING In The Blue Balloon: Journey Through Grief, Sally Mathews takes us down a path that all parents fear. She shares her reflections on...
