Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from President Masaryk a Duch Abrahamama Lincolna On one gloomy winter day in 1916, at one of the darkest crises of the war, the evening train from London brought an alien visitor to my house. He was an old man, the subject of an enemy power, and a fugitive from the justice of his country. I can still see him in my mind s eye, standing on the door step, carrying a little handbag, with his thin, gaunt figure, with his ascetic cast of face. He looked tired and depressed and seemed worried because he had left his passport behind and because in consequence, he might have difficulties with the police. Indeed the unsophisticated police constables of the City of Edinburgh were somewhat perplexed by my alien visitor and every morning and every night I had to report his presence to the detective department. Five years later I paid a return visit to my wartime guest. The fugitive of 1916 had become the ruler of an ancient and historic state, he had become the successor of...
